

ECU CAMPUS UPDATES

Dan Hays Stem Center

ECU President Wendell Godwin officially announced that ECU's new STEM Center, which will house the ECU School of Nursing upon its completion, will be named in honor of Chickasaw Citizen, Dan Hays.

Hays, who possessed an allotment of 320 acres of premiere land across what is now Ada, Okla., donated the original 16-acre allotment to the East Central State Normal School, which remains the center of ECU's campus today.

The Dan Hays STEM Center will allow ECU to recruit a number of new staff and faculty as well as more than 200 new nursing students to the university and community. This facility will serve to reaffirm ECU's commitment to educating students and to transforming students' lives for generations to come.

ECU implements I-DREAM Grant for First American students pursuing careers in Education

The ECU College of Education and Psychology announced the implementation of a new 3.1M grant intended to increase representation of First American and other minority students in Oklahoma's teacher pipeline.
